

TrafMan installation uses the Installshield® Windows installer. The typical setup file will use the windows wizard install format used in current windows programs alleviating the DOS command line installer. A few details to note are:

The install path still must be under 50 characters long. We suggest that you use the default path "C:\TRAFMAN".

TrafMan still uses DOS emulation in Windows NT/2000/XP. This has little effect on program operation except for com port control.

TrafMan can be used over a network but must be run locally. The software cannot be installed on a server or share a database with simultaneous user access.

<http://support.diamondtraffic.com/knowledgemanager/questions/89/>